

Our PIECE of mind for your PEACE of mind

By: Lexi Finck and Mackenzie Robson

Q: I'm a sophomore and have been thinking about looking into college information, but none of my friends seem to be taking it too seriously. Am I starting too soon?

A: We think starting sooner is much wiser than starting later. Maybe you could talk your friends into college searching with you; maybe they're just not sure how to get started. As for ideas, the SDMyLife site is extremely helpful and convenient in giving all sorts of career choices, which would help you narrow down your school options. Campus visits are a good idea and talking to your counselors is a must! Good luck!